ISTA Trivia Night

The ISTA team organized an entertaining evening full of competition, musical and dramatic performances, and plenty of good food and drink to keep up the strength of all participants. The various teams, each made up of parents, teachers, or students, put their heads together to find the right answers to as many questions as possible on a wide range of subjects.

Every team had to agree on ten answers in seven categories: arts and leisure, history and geography, science and sports, Harry Potter, beer, Berlin, and personalities.

Dr. Chuck McDaniel served as emcee, asking a combination of questions ideal for the wide spectrum of players: While the adults were better informed on beer, students won the Harry Potter category hands down; long-term residents of the Hauptstadt had a clear advantage in the Berlin category.

Between each round talented students presented songs and skits while the scores were tallied. After close competition in the first rounds (and a major washout on Harry Potter) the Parent Newsletter team was victorious over “Magic 5;” third-place was a tie between the teams “So Much Better than the Teachers” and “Mommies Dearest.”

Thanks to the ISTA team for the fun evening, and to the sponsors Hertha BSC and Café Dakota for donating prizes. We look forward to defending our title next January!
